ProAct Participant Handbook

Let's discuss our 3 R's
Rights, Responsibilities and Rules!

This handbook was developed to help you understand the rights you have as a ProAct Participant and your responsibilities as well. Because we want your time at ProAct to be enjoyable and satisfying, we'll go through the handbook together to make sure you understand the rules, rights, and responsibilities. We'll also let you know when changes occur to the handbook.

Equal Opportunity means everyone is treated the same and has the same opportunities while receiving services at ProAct. We promise to follow all the Equal Opportunity laws and regulations related to you and to ensure your success at ProAct.

We also follow an Affirmative Action Program which means we won't discriminate against you because of race, color, creed, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, disability, age, marital status, membership or activity in a local human rights commission, or status with regard to public assistance. We also promise to provide disability related accommodations if you need them so you can be successful.

If you have questions about Equal Opportunity or Affirmative Action or feel you may not be treated fairly, you can talk to your case coordinator or any other ProAct staff. You may also contact JoAnn Peine. She manages ProAct's Affirmative Action Program. We will make sure your concerns are addressed as quickly as possible and confidentially.

Your Rights

1. You will be involved in identifying what services and programs you want to be involved in and the length of those services and if you meet the entrance criteria, we'll support you while you participate in those services and programs.
2. You can refuse or end services at ProAct and we will let you know any the consequences of those actions, including suspension or termination. ProAct will also help you move to a different provider if you want to transfer.
3. You have the right to know the cost of your services and who is paying for it.
4. You have the right to have staff that are trained and know how to help you.
5. You have the right to have information about you kept private and have the right to see the information about you in your case record unless it is classified as confidential.
6. You have the right to be safe while receiving ProAct services; physically, emotionally, and financially without being restrained unless you may hurt yourself.
7. You have the right to be treated with courtesy and respect including your personal property and in regards to the observance of your religious or cultural beliefs.
8. You have the right to be informed of ProAct's Grievance Policy and Procedure and who else you may contact for assistance.
9. You have the right to be your own advocate to ensure your rights are upheld and to have friends of your choosing.
10. You have the right to personal privacy in the restroom without others walking in on you.
11. You have the right to be free from any form of harassment which may include touch, words, technology, or bullying.

Your Responsibilities

1. You are responsible for telling the person in charge of your program/employment whether or not you think you can, or want to follow, a certain participant service plan.
2. You have the responsibility to understand your program and participant plan. Understanding your program is important to the success of your plan. If you do not understand something, ask.
3. You have the responsibility to tell the person in charge of your program about any other care or medication you are receiving as well as any changes in your health...
4. You have the responsibility to tell the person in charge of your program exactly how you feel about things that are happening in your life. Be honest and direct.
5. You have the responsibility to respect the rights and privacy of other participants and staff at ProAct.
6. You have the responsibility to follow ProAct's policies both at the program site or when using ProAct transportation.
7. You have the responsibility to know and follow fire and other emergency procedures.

We also have general rules you must follow to help ProAct maintain a safe environment for everyone. These rules apply at all ProAct sites and when on ProAct transportation. We call these our Golden Rules!

1. You may only smoke outside in areas where smoking is allowed.
2. You may only eat during breaks or at lunch times
3. You may not use alcohol or drugs unless they are prescribed medications and gambling is not allowed
4. You should always be respectful of other participants or ProAct staff which includes no fighting, yelling or stealing (this includes asking other participants to loan you money). Sexual activity is not allowed.
5. You may not bring weapons to ProAct.
6. You must clean up after yourself.
7. You should always remain in your programming or assigned area unless you have approval from ProAct staff.
8. You may only use your cellphone during breaks or at lunch. If you need assistance to call someone, ask a ProAct staff person to help you.

 - T-shirts with words or pictures that may be offensive to others are not permitted.

General information

1. Weather emergencies: In the event of emergency conditions including inclement weather, ProAct programs and transportation may not operate.
 - For Eagan participants - listen to WCCO (830-AM) radio station or the Channel 4 or 5 TV Station which broadcasts school, business and ProAct's closing as a source of information on questionable days.
 - For Hudson participants – the site will be closed if the Hudson schools are closed.
 - For Red Wing participants – the site notifies participants about weather related programming changes including transportation based on weather warnings for the area.
 - For Shakopee participants – the site notifies participants about weather related programming changes based on weather warning for the area.
2. Arrival and Departure: You may not arrive for ProAct services earlier than 8A. You should be picked up no later than 4P if you have your own transportation (not ProAct transportation).
3. Lunches and Breaks: You have a 15-minute break as well as a 30-minute lunch break.
4. Attendance: We anticipate participants will attend their scheduled programming 100% of the time scheduled unless there is a scheduled vacation, appointment, or illness. ProAct should be notified of vacations and appointments ahead of time and by 7:30A the morning of the absence due to illness. Participants consistently attending below 80% keeps ProAct from admitting new participants wanting to attend programming at ProAct. It also does not allow ProAct to maintain its fiscal commitments to its funders as stated in the annual agreements. Participants below 80% will be evaluated on an individual basis with the goal being to correct attendance issues.
5. Your Personal Items: You are responsible for any personal items you bring to ProAct and for their safety. Lockers are available to store items but need to be maintained and kept clean.
6. Holidays: You will receive a calendar that lists all ProAct Holidays for the present year.
7. Feedback and Being Heard:
 - ProAct has a Participant Advisory Committee made up of both participants and ProAct staff. The committee meets monthly to discuss participant concerns and issues.
 - You are encouraged to share your ideas, thoughts, and concerns with ProAct staff. You will also be asked to complete an annual survey to help ProAct staff continue to enhance the services being provided to you.
 - You may file a grievance if you feel as though your concerns are not being addressed. Inquire about the process with ProAct staff.
8. Illness Guidelines:
 - If you are ill you should receive care for the illness at your place of residence whenever possible.
 - Due to the risk that signs, and symptoms of illness may represent a communicable disease, infection control procedures will be followed by Day Services staff in dealing with the illness.Please stay home if:
 - Fever (oral temperature of 100.4 or higher). May return 24 hours after fever breaks.
 - Diarrhea. May return 24 hours after last stool.
 - Conjunctivitis (pink eye). Bacterial- May return after they have received at least 24 hours of antibiotic treatment. Viral- May return after documentation is received noting that the physician verifies that you don't have a contagious infection.

Earned sick and safe time employee notice

Employees in Minnesota are entitled to earned sick and safe time, a form of paid leave. Employees must accrue at least one hour of earned sick and safe time for every 30 hours they work, up to at least 48 hours in a year. The definition of a year for purposes of the employee's earned sick and safe time accrual is: Calendar year – January through December.

The earned sick and safe time hours the employee has available, as well as those that have been used in the most recent pay period, must be indicated on the employee's earnings statement that they receive at the end of each pay period. Earned sick and safe time must be paid at the same hourly rate employees earn from employment. Employees are not required to seek or find a replacement for their shift to use earned sick and safe time. They may use earned sick and safe time for all or part of a shift, depending on their need.

Earned sick and safe time can be used for:

- an employee's mental or physical illness, treatment or preventive care;
- the mental or physical illness, treatment or preventive care of an employee's family member;
- absence due to domestic abuse, sexual assault or stalking of an employee or their family member;
- closure of an employee's workplace due to weather or public emergency or closure of their family member's school or care facility due to weather or public emergency; and
- when determined by a health authority or health care professional that an employee or their family member is at risk of infecting others with a communicable disease.

Notifying employer, documentation

An employer can require their employees to provide up to seven days of advance notice when possible (for example, when an employee has a medical appointment scheduled in advance) before using sick and safe time. An employer can also require their employees to provide certain documentation regarding the reason for their use of earned sick and safe time if they use it for more than three consecutive days.

If an employee plans to use earned sick and safe time for an appointment, preventive care or another permissible reason they know of in advance, inform your case coordinator by phone or email as far in advance as possible, but at least 3 days in advance. In situations where an employee cannot provide advance notice, the employee should contact their case coordinator by phone or email as soon as they know they will be unable to work.

Retaliation, right to file complaint

It is against the law for an employer to retaliate, or to take negative action, against an employee for using or requesting earned sick and safe time or otherwise exercising their earned sick and safe time rights under the law. If an employee believes they have been retaliated against or improperly denied earned sick and safe time, they can file a complaint with the Minnesota Department of Labor and Industry. They can also file a civil action in court for earned sick and safe time violations.
